

THE DUBLIN REVIEW.

89

THIRD SERIES.

VOL. VI.

JULY—OCTOBER.

MDCCCLXXXI.

PUBLIC LIBRARY
PUBLIC LIBRARY,
MICHIGAN

SEP 17 1888

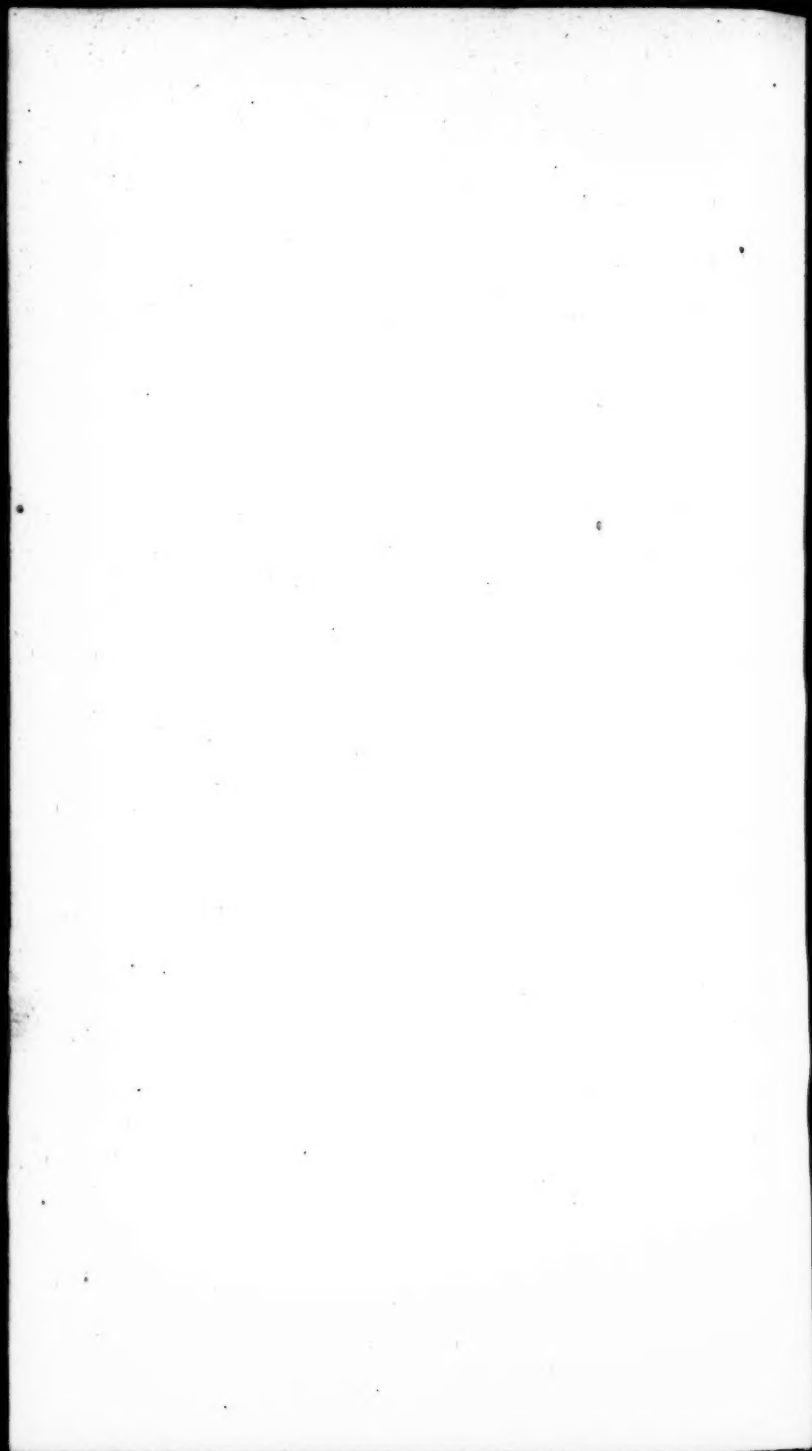

SEP 17 1888

LONDON: BURNS & OATES.

DUBLIN: M. H. GILL & SON.

BALTIMORE: KELLY, PIET & CO.

—
1881.

A

A

A

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—THE RELIGIOUS PRESS	PAGE 1
Bad effect of Excessive Newspaper Reading—Religious London Papers: Anglican—The Gazette, Guardian, Record, Rock, Church Times, Church Review, English Churchman;—The Nonconformist, The Freeman, The Baptist—Organization and extent of the Methodist body—The Watchman, Methodist Recorder, Methodist, Primitive Methodist—The Salvation Army Organ—Presbyterian Organ—Other Organs—Survey not flattering to National Pride.
ART. II.—THE EXTENT OF FREE WILL	29
Line and present position of Theistic argument—Purpose of present Article—Thesis to be defended on extent of Free Will—A preliminary map of man's moral nature and action—"End" of moral action—What "virtual" intention is—Measure of the degree of virtuousness or sinfulness—Liberty of moral acts—What "perfectly voluntary" acts are—Theory of some Libertarians on extent of Free Will assailed—its theological results—Reasons against: first, universal testimony of mankind—second, frequency of anti-impulsive effort—Plausible argument for: the need of proximate warning—Two further statements—"Pervasive remembrance" of two cardinal truths—Kind and degree of advertence required for mortal sin—Meaning of "inordinate desire" of pleasurable—A word about Anti-theists.
ART. III.—THE REORGANIZATION OF OUR ARMY	86
England injudicious in Army Reforms—Great difference between nominal and real strength of our Army—Bad effects of the Reserve—Our army more a Colonial than European one—Character of the English against success of the Reserve—Reorganization prejudicial to regimental officers—Five years of command, too little and too much—New rules for retirement of officers bad, and heavy on taxpayers—"Territorial Regiments" another unwise change—Treatment of soldiers' wives and widows—Value of our Volunteers—German discipline impossible with Englishmen.

ART. IV. RECENT WORKS ON THE STATE OF GERMANY . . . 106

A new departure in German Historical Literature—Note-worthy works by Janssen, Dacheux, Höfler, Lederer, and Pastor—How each of these works is the complement of the other—Nicholas Cusanus—Printing, education, and sermons in fifteenth century—The Humanists and the Reformation—State of the Fine Arts—Manners and customs of the people—Territorial lords, agriculture, commerce, guilds, &c.—Influence of Roman law on the German people—John Geiler and his preaching—His rigorism.

ART. V.—THE REVISION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT . . . 127

Catholics have a deep vested interest in the English Bible—English Religion a Bible Religion—Excellence of Douai Bible as compared with King James's—Convocation and Revision—Textual Criticism and its Results—The present Revision—Changes that affect Catholic Truth—Its notable omissions—Treatment of the Three Heavenly Witnesses.

ART. VI.—CATHOLIC MISSIONS IN EQUATORIAL AFRICA . . . 144

Uganda, kingdom of the Kabaka, Mtesa—Mtesa's Character and Power—Mgr. Lavigerie's Story of the Algerian Missions—Christian Villages of St. Cyprien and Ste. Monique—Attempt to found Christian Colony at Timbuctoo—Algerian Missionaries undertake missions in Equatorial Africa—They land at Zanzibar and organize a Caravan—They start for the Great Lakes—Glories of African Landscape and Misadventures.

ART. VII.—A RECENT CONTRIBUTION TO ENGLISH HISTORY . 175

The Title and Character of Father Bridgett's Book—Belief in Real Presence in Early British Church—And in Anglo-Saxon Church—Its penitential System a Proof of the Real Presence—Zeal and Honour for Blessed Sacrament in Early Norman Times—The Interdict of Innocent III. and the Faith of the people—Wycliffe and the Lollards—Importance of Father Bridgett's Volumes.

ART VIII.—ON SOME REASONS FOR NOT DESPAIRING OF A NATIONAL RETURN TO THE FAITH 201

Upward Tendency in the Establishment from the Beginning—Increase of Religious Observances in this Century—Religious Movements of Wesley and others in last Century and beginning of this—Romantic Literature, Art, and Language—Influence of French and Irish Immigrations—English Martyrdoms for the Faith—Conversions, typical, widespread, and influential—Present Aspect.

ART IX.—MR. GLADSTONE'S SECOND LAND BILL 220

Need of New Measures for protection of Irish Tenantry—Form of the Bill—State of Case between Landlord and Tenant—Variety of Agricultural Conditions—Ulster Custom—Condition of Connaught and Munster—Measures of the Bill examined—"Fair Rent" provisions—Fixity of Tenure—Miscellaneous Provisions—Constitution of the Court and Land Commission—General Criticism of the Bill.

NOTICES OF CATHOLIC CONTINENTAL PERIODICALS. 250

The Katlwlik—Historisch-politische Blätter—La Scuola Cattolica—Revue des Questions Historiques.

NOTICES OF BOOKS 259

Professor Mivart's The Cat—Spencer and Exell's Pulpit Commentary—Clarke's Book of Job—Buxton's Handbook to Political Questions of the Day—Father Goldie's Bygone Oxford—Paoli's Life of Rosmini-Serbati—Ffrench Duff's Lusiad of Camoens—Wemyss Reid's Politicians of To-day—Rev. H. Fanshawe Tozer's Turkish Armenia—Moncure D. Conway's Demonology and Devil-Lore—Wren's Intermediate History of England—Vallaurius's Inscriptiones—Father Morris's Life of Fr. John Gerard—Father Matthew Russell's Erin—Berger's Registres d' Innocent IV.—Wallon's Tribunal

Révolutionnaire de Paris—Cochin's Etudes Sociales et Economiques—Abbé Morlais's Libre Arbitre de Vauvenargues—Sister M. F. Clare's Cloister Songs—Rev. T. K. Cheyne's Prophecies of Isaiah—Davies's Hindu Philosophy—Edwin Arnold's Hindu Poetry—Rev. J. Long's Eastern Proverbs—Autobiography of Mark Rutherford—Warren's Liturgy and Ritual of Celtic Church—Father Antonia à Vicetia's Breviloquium of St. Bonaventure—Lexicon Bonaventurianum—Bruck's Hessel's Lex Salica—Ryan's Patriotic, Religious, and Miscellaneous Poems—Father Ryder's Catholic Controversy—Rev. W. W. Hutchings' Bonaventure's Life of Christ.
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
ART. I.—THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY	307
To find the "time spirit," the high object of the historian —Contrast of English in the eighteenth century with other European developments—Growth of constitutional freedom in England—Political freedom—Religious grievances; especially of Catholics—Foreign testimony to English constitutional freedom—Locke and the principle of intellectual freedom—Locke's method developed in France, rejected by the English mind— English public opinion Christian—Small influence of the Apologists—John Wesley's revival of "religion of the heart"—In political and spiritual orders England stands apart from Europe—Catholic estimate of Revolu- tion of 1688.
ART. II.—THE CHRISTIAN EMPERORS AND THE PAGAN TEMPLES.	336
Value of M. Paul Allard's great work—Did the first Christians spare what was worthy in Pagan literature and art?—Value of conflicting evidence as to Con- stantine's treatment of Pagan temples—Apparently severe laws of Constantius—Pagan license under Julian, under Valentinian—Treatment of Paganism by Gratian —Story of Princess Serena, illustrates feeling of Chris- tians and Pagans under Theodosius—Two leading principles of Christian legislation.
ART. III.—LITERATURE FOR THE YOUNG	354
Importance of everything affecting children, the future "people"—The enemies of the Church know this— Deliberate instruction only half of what the child learns—Importance of juvenile reading—Periodicals for the young: their number—Only one Catholic periodical—Character and tendency of the non-Catholic magazines—Wrong views of life, and of Catholicism in some—Dangers attending the use of the better sort and even of the non-religious—This non-Catholic literature must be largely patronized by Catholic families—Three qualities of excellence that must mark any successful Catholic effort—Nature of the fiction that will be influential with our young people.

ART. IV.—MINOR POETS OF MODERN FRANCE . . .

PAGE
377

Two general characteristics of modern French poets: multitude and mediocrity—Their principle: want of principle; the one result of their poetry: worship of the picturesque—Events which led to the destruction of schools of poetry and the prevailing mediocrity—Auguste Barbier, the Poet of the Iambics—Alfred de Musset: different character of his earlier and his later poems—Moral elevation of Alcide de Beauchesne's writings—Victor de Laprade rescued from false philosophies by his mother—Calemarde de la Fayette's over literalness; his powers of description of rural objects—François Ponsard's great tragedy "Charlotte Corday"—Provincial poetry: Breton and Provençal poets—Hersart de la Villemarqué—Brizeux the "Burns of Brittany;" his love of Nature, of his native country, and of "Marie"—Suzel's works only known through translations—Jasmin, the Gascon troubadour: opposition of his wife to poetry-making—His language, his love for the suffering poor, his charity—Outline of his touching piece "Crazy Martha"—His popularity—Called by Cardinal Donnet the "St. Vincent de Paul of Poesy."

ART. V.—ARCHBISHOP LANFRANC AND HIS MODERN CRITICS . . .

406

Present generally received account of Lanfranc: to be greatly modified—Social advantages of his birth—Charge of ignorance of his prayers, of Scripture, of divine things—Mistakes made in translating terminology of the old accounts of his conversion—Lanfranc enters le Bec incognito—His intimacy with Duke William—Lanfranc's action regarding William's marriage to Matilda, and removal of the interdict—Mr. Freeman's mistaken account—Impediment between William and Matilda shown to have been not affinity, but consanguinity: in what grades probably—Matilda had not been married to Gerbod of Tournay and was not Gundrade's mother—Lanfranc's signal services to art in Normandy and England—False charge against him of despising and hating the English: incident of St. Elphege—Lanfranc's devotion to St. Elphege—Accusations against him of servility to crown and disloyalty to tiara—Abundant refutation of both in history of times ; mendaciousness of Red King's reproach to St. Anselm ; Lanfranc's difficulty as ex-officio viceroy, &c.—He died in cause of Holy See : his character.

ART. VI.—THE RELIGION OF GEORGE ELIOT 433

Was she the translator of Strauss' "Life of Jesus"?—Peculiarity of the mythical school—Humanity instead of God as the object of morality—Is her teaching a delusion? On what does she ground the hope that she clings to?—Motive of her earlier group of romances, Reminiscence ; of her later, Aspiration—In those she is "sadder than tears, more gloomy than death" : no joy, no hope—The religion of the peasantry, a mere Paganism, worship of nature—Her estimate of the Evangelical revival : Dinah Morris—Dinah's marriage and Hetty Sorrel's reprieve ; artistic blemishes—Maggie Tulliver's religious phases : her refuge the Christianity of the "Imitation" : but interpreted unchristianly—George Eliot's despair of immortality, misconstrued asceticism—Her teaching where she touches the heart is in defiance of her creed ; the reminiscence or effect of unsuspected religion—Her disbelief her great misfortune : where is the warrant of her mission to teach?—Her history, if it could be known, the best criticism of her views—Her works lose their charm as her anti-Christian feelings grow habitual.

ART. VII.—PROSPECTS IN BELGIUM 464

Papal letter to Cardinal Deschamps—Well-merited censure of a few irreconcilables—Present Government, in spite of protest, guided by Masonic lodges—Perfect organization of Secret Societies in Belgium—Object of Liberal policy to destroy revealed religion—Proofs in recent legislative action : Government refuse to be present at Te Deum on King's feast-day—Final sanction of the Premier's policy in diplomatic rupture with Rome—Proposals to harass the clergy by reduction of subsidies—M. Bara's ironical moderation in disinheriting seminaries, &c.—Discussion of suppression of army chaplaincies : resignation of M. Guillery, and its significance—M. Malou's statistics showing failure of public school law—Irrreligious and often ludicrous doings of the "Commission d'Enquête"—Prejudiced unfairness of Government towards municipalities that are Catholic—Refusal to select Catholic burgomasters—Fullest measure of autonomy allowed to Liberal municipal councils—Studied attempts to insult and annoy the Catholic majority—How can such a state of things continue in a free land? explanation—Caucus elections: marvellous organization and influence of Liberal associations—Present struggle and position of Catholics.

ART. VIII.—THE DAYS OF CREATION. (A Reply) . . . 498

Writer orthodox in proposing new view on a point on which Church has not pronounced—Reply to "M." of the Tablet—Re-explanation of word "ritual"—No need for "The Epiphany" feast of light—Reply to objection from acceptance of "day," and its diverse meanings—Confirmation of writer's view from the ten "toledoths"—The view not covered by any decree of Trent—Reply to imputation of truckling to "modern theories": duty of modern apologists.

CONSTITUTION OF POPE LEO XIII. REGARDING THE BISHOPS AND REGULAR MISSIONARIES IN ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND . . . 508

ENCYCLICAL OF POPE LEO XIII. ON POLITICAL POWER . . . 522

NOTICES OF CATHOLIC CONTINENTAL PERIODICALS . . . 531

La Scuola Cattolica—Civiltà Cattolica—La Controverse—
Katholik—Historisch-politische Blätter—Stimmen aus
Maria Laach.

NOTICES OF BOOKS 541

Father Harper's Metaphysics of the School—L'Abbé de Broglie's Positivisme et la Science Expérimentale—Canon Wenham's Catechumen—Mrs. Stair Douglas's Life of Dr. Whewell—Dr. Ludwig Schüetzel's Thomas-Lexicon—Cardinal Bartolini's Memorie dei Santi Cirillo e Metodio—Abbot Wolter's Ordinis Monastici Elementa—Dr. Von Lehner's Die Marienverehrung—The Deluge—Miss Conway's On the Sunrise Slope—Mac-Alla's Rhymes of the Roadside—Mr. G. Gilbert Scott's Essay on English Architecture—Sister Augustine—Bishop Chatard's Christian Truths—Dr. Walsh's Exposition of the Land Act of 1881.

BOOKS OF DEVOTION AND SPIRITUAL READING . . . 564